I've read your lovely book cover to cover and enjoyed every word. For a start, it's such an attractive-looking publication, every page well laid out and plenty of good clear illustrations. Then you tell the story so well. I love the way you incorporate different peoples' memories into your narrative so smoothly, the various voices adding valuable colour. I particularly enjoyed reading Vicky King's contributions: she came to some of my Adult Ed Literature classes and always gave excellent value in discussions as you can imagine!

Besides being an enjoyable and nostalgic read, it's also a valuable contribution to Farnham's history and I appreciate your meticulous footnotes, acknowledgements and indexing. They're such a pain to do but so helpful to future researchers and historians!

So hearty congratulations to you and to David. It was so kind of him to deliver my copy personally. It's just a pity that the story, after all your years of tireless hard work and campaigning, had such a sad ending!

All best wishes,

Rosemary
